One day last week the friends of Mr. George

Hannaford and family of Great Chebeague made them a visit in the form of an excursion on the Magnet. They were entertained by Mr. Hannaford's family in a most generous manner, and served with a bounteous repast laid on tables tastefully adorned with flowers.

Overcoats were in style yesterday.

The island travel is dropping off.

The serpent made a short visit in the harbor yesterday.

The City Clerk is busy preparing the voting lists.

The grand jury meets two weeks from to-monday.

In the case of Hobbs vs. the Eastern Railroad, Judge Virgin announced the decision of the Law Court yesterday. The motion and exceptions were overruled. A verdict had been rendered in favor of the administrator for $55-00, to which the road took exception.

A mackerel schooner arrived here yesterday morning with a shark on board, which had been captured off the Cape.

The members of the First Maine Regiment are now here white belts and pompos to appear in at the muster.

The Driggs went to Yarmouth Saturday and defeated the Athletics 10 to 9.

An attempt was made to pick the lock to Mr. Dowd's room on Congress street, the other night, but it failed.

Officer Harmon had a set-to with a drunkard on the corner of Winter and Pine streets, last evening, and the drunkard was handcuffed and worth of use.

To show from unquestioned authority that our goods and services are of the highest quality, we give statement as below and trust that it will be found to be fully correct.

LIBBY, McNEILL & LIBBY,

MEETING TO-NIGHT.

This evening, it will be remembered that

Gov. Connor and Col. Robert G. Ingersoll will address at City Hall. The exercises will begin at 7 o'clock. There will be a large attendance.

The Continental Western and other companies will not turn out as they go to Biddeford the night following.

SPIRIT MATERIALIZATION.

A writer in the Boston Sunday Courier, who has been in Portland gives the following account of spirit materialization in this city:

"I heard, not only in Boston but elsewhere, of the spirit materialization of the dead in a family of Portland, I thought admission (as a reporter) into the family circle, in the belief that a faithful report of such proceedings as might take place before my eyes would be acceptable. The method of entrance was absolutely necessary, as only intimate friends of the family, or even those who are invited by intimate friends, can ever gain admission. At 8 o'clock we were seated—twelve of us—in one of the large parlors of the house. Across the corner of the room a black curtain, drawn from top to bottom, was drawn. It enclosed only the two walls of the room making the corner—a common black wall with a doorway at the top and a low stool. The gas was turned off so that we could just distinguish each other's faces and the picture before us. After sitting in pleasant conversation for perhaps ten minutes the curtain was drawn and the light was turned on. "Nearer, my soul, to Thee!"

was the first cry. As the light was turned on we saw the figure of a woman, with outstretched hands and in long white raiment, float stationary over the curtain above our heads, and then, immediately following this figure of a young girl of 20 years of age here stepped from behind the curtain, through the opening, and stood in front of it not six feet from us—the medium, a lad of 45 being seated upon the floor in the enclosure. I desire to say here that we could see the dress of the medium through the opening of the figure we all saw. The whole of the garments were white and shining, giving out a sort of phosphoric light, such as is seen upon the water of certain brilliant lights.

Every person present saw the whole form of the figure, and the figure, in turn, saw us. The figure, however, was not in the position of a person, but rather of a being who was not in the position of a person, but rather of a being who was not in the position of a person, but rather of a being who was not in the position of a person, but rather

ANDROSCOGGIN COUNTY.

The Journal says that the Androscoggin Cattle Show and Fair opened yesterday, Wednesday and Thursday, September 20, 21 and 22, and evening, inclusive. At the trustees' meeting Saturday it was decided to have the fair before the society on Thursday at 10 a. m., by the President of the society, Dr. A. Garcelon.

The Journal says that a movement is on foot by several Levantine parties to purchase a portion of Haskell's Island, near Harpswell Neck.

The island contains some thirty acres of land, and has an excellent beach and harbor. A
